30 Percent of users will abandon a purchase if the online ordering experience isn't mobile friendly

The world of online ordering is evolving at a fast pace. These days, people are using smartphones and tablets much more than desktops and laptops as common tools for placing orders, so there is a good chance that your customers will be using their smartphones to view your menus and place their orders. This is where responsive, mobile web design comes as the right solution for your restaurant. MobileBytes Online Ordering works great on both Android and iPhones devices, ensuring no customer is left out.
